Miss Macgregor

And Her Nonresistant Principles.

By F. A. MITCHEL.

Copyright by American Press Association, 1911.

Miss Macgregor was a Scotch lady, who came over to America from Glasgow to Boston in colonial days. Miss Macgregor at the time the events narrated in this story occurred was sixty years old, four feet eleven inches high and her circumference four feet-two. Her hair was snowy white. There was much in the elderly maiden's appearance to indicate that she was firm of purpose. Her face was square, her eyes deep set in the sockets, and the corners of her mouth curved downward. She had never married and had never had any desire to be married. Indeed, the male sex was repulsive to her.

Miss Macgregor came from Scotland with her father, who accompanied a fortune in trading on the coast. At his death, which occurred when he was a very old man, he left his daughter, then past middle age, several ships, besides houses and land. Miss Macgregor took his place in the management of her property, confining the business on the ocean. She would have made women captains of her vessels, but in those days women were the heavy guns hit the ship was so far out at sea that getting rid of them would be impracticable. And even then he feared that the ship would be hoisted overboard. But, as good luck would have it, Miss Macgregor was so dextrous at the first month that she never showed herself out of her cabin. Another month followed, during which she sat by day on deck wrapped in a Macgregor shawl. She would see no other thing but being very proud of the clan from whence she sprang.

One day when the sea was choppy, sliding in her accustomed seat, she noticed an unusual movement of the officers and crew. The former were passing a glass among them, each in turn bringing it to bear on a distant ship. Calling the captain to her she asked what interested them.

"That vessel we suspect to be a pirate," he replied. Instead of showing fear the old lady stood up on her feet, took the glass and looked for herself.

"What makes you think she's a pirate?" "She's built up for speed and fighting."

The old lady said no more. Brought face to face with that ship she bore of only at a distance her supposition theory collapsed. But she was too proud to admit it.

The captain explained steering a course to head off the Scots. Miss Macgregor sat immobile, while the two ships were inevitably drawing closer together. There was no fear in her face, but a thunderbolt. Were there a mythological goddess of war she would have been his impersonation. Presently the stranger "broke" the skull and crossbones, firing at the same time a shot across the Scotia's bow.

"What's that?" she asked. "Guns," replied the captain.

The curve of the old lady's lips turned from downward and upward in a grim smile. But she said never a word. She had no occasion for Captain Hardwick for disobeying her orders and no reproach.

"Strike the flag," the captain ordered. Up jumped Miss Macgregor. "Strike the flag!" she cried. "Never. Not on my ship while I'm aboard of her."

"It's a rule," said the captain. "I wish to get her within range and when our broadside faces her we'll run out our guns for the fight."

"I'll not," said the lady. "I did not think of it."

The pirate unsuspectingly drew nearer and the two vessels stood side by side. The captain's eyes were fixed on the Scotia's bows and he was not aware of the fact that the Scotia's bows were fixed on the pirate's bows.

A great change came over Miss Macgregor, her appearance suggesting her ancestor highlanders "eh" vi Wallace bid." Hardwick endeavored to restrain the command, but soon gave way to the little Scotchwoman. Unfortunately, she did not have the knowledge of seamanship and ordnance which she carried on such an encounter and it went against her.

The pirate kept drawing nearer, finally getting into a position favorable for grappling. Hardwick told his men to go below and bring up the muskets and cutlasses. They did so, and the captain suggested to his commander that he move to the gun deck. The pirates and if the pirates attempted to board surprise them. She consented and, taking a cutlass, screened herself as the Scotia's crew would have given up the fight.

"Come on, ye lumps o' steam," cried the pirate.

One of the pirates was about to leap to the Scotia, but this strange apparition threw him flat back. But only for a moment. The Scotia's men supported their leader and for a time repelled the attack. But at last the buccannery gained a foothold on the Scotia's deck, and her crew were driven back.

As hour passed, the pirates could not score a victory. A number of times the Scotia's crew would have given up the fight but for the indomitable resolution of Miss Macgregor. One glance at her adamant face and they were ready for another thrust. The officers realizing her value protected her from many a stroke that would have left her like an apple.

"Get away!" she cried to them. But they refused.

Her men, fighting as they were for their lives, as time went on killed and disabled more pirates than they lost themselves. Finally Captain Hardwick, seeing that he had his enemies outnumbered, gave a signal for a concentrated effort. It so reduced the pirates' numbers that they gave way. Miss Macgregor broke through those of her own side in front of her and followed the retreating buccannery, chopping them with her cutlass, till Captain Hardwick caught her by her skirts and pulled her back. Most of the fleeing men were killed. The rest jumped into the sea. Then Miss Macgregor stood on the forecastle, covered

THE BEST REMEDY

For Women—Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Belleville, Ont.—"I was so weak and worn out from a female weakness that I concluded to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I took several bottles of it, and I gained strength so rapidly that it seemed to make a new woman of me. I can do as good a day's work as I ever did. I sincerely bless the day that I made up my mind to take your medicine for female weakness. I am exceedingly grateful to you for your kind letters, as I certainly profited by them. I give you permission to publish this story any time you wish."

Women everywhere should remember that there is no other remedy known to medicine that will cure female weakness and so successfully carry women through the Change of Life as Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from native roots and herbs.

For 30 years it has been curing women from the worst forms of female ill—menstruation, ulceration, displacement, fibroid tumors, irregularity, periodic pains, backache, and nervous prostration.

If you want special advice write for it to Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass. It is free and absolutely helpful.

ed with blood, her skirts torn to shreds, her white hair unloosed and flying in the winds, not a word of her sternness gone, and said:

"There's no kirk on the sheep, but that's no reason why we shouldn't have prayers. Don't you know, give thanks for the victory?"

"Not a man but dropped. Not a man dared disobey lest she cut him down for mutiny," said Miss Macgregor, poured forth in her quaint Scotch dialect thanks that they had not only been spared, but had been enabled to wipe their enemies.

The episode changed Miss Macgregor's noncombatant principles. When she returned from her voyage as first mate she found that she had been in her ship's company in the pirate's hands. She would have been a prisoner, but for the fact that the vessel resembled a fleet of men-o'-war.

Too Hasty. Barker was in a force hither the other morning when the front door opened and in walked a stranger unannounced.

"I came," began the stranger, taking off his coat and rolling up his sleeves. "What?" thundered Barker. "You didn't come in here to start anything, did you?"

"I did," replied the stranger coolly.

But he got no further. With a savage whoop Barker grabbed the intruder around the waist and deposited him on the sidewalk. Two hours later his wife returned.

"William," she said, "was there any one here during my absence?" "Yes," snorted Barker; "there was some lunatic here who said he came to start something, but I just bundled him out on the sidewalk before he had time to make a noise."

"William, you are the biggest goose in town."

"In what way?" "Why, the man came to start the clock that hasn't been running for a week. He is a clocksmith," St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

Going Him One Better. An American was telling a Frenchman of the wonders of the forty-eight story skyscrapers in New York.

"You should see our new hotel in the Rue de Republique," said the Frenchman.

"Why, what is there peculiar about it?"

"The two top stories are on hinges, so that they can be lowered to let the moon go by,"—Pele Mele.

Disproportionate. "See here," cried the cat, "are you really determined to drown me?"

"I am," replied the man. "You killed our cat, and I believe in a life for a life."

"But you're bent upon taking nine lives for a life,"—Catholic Standard and Times.

Rest at Last. Morrell: It is true, as has been said, that we do not appreciate our blessings until they take their flight.

Enjoy—Of course. They keep up such a racket during the day that we enjoy them most when the nurse has tucked them in their little beds.—Philadelphia Press.

A World of Dangers. "Spirituous beverages," says Mrs. Quinor, "have wrecked many happy dispositions."

"Yes," answered her husband, "and so have salad, ice cream and coffee taken after 10 o'clock at night."—Washington Post.

BURIED TREASURES

You remember the story of the old man when he was on his death bed, called his sons to him and told them that a great treasure was buried in the family vault.

After he died the sons dug that farm deep, from one end to the other, finding no gold or silver; they planned it and in the Autumn they discovered what the old man meant. The treasure was there, but its name was Digging and planting.

Then you no doubt, remember another story of an old man who, on his deathbed, called his sons to him and told them to try to break a number of sticks that (in the story) lay near the bed. They could not do it, but the old man told them to unite the bundle and try each stick separate by, they broke them without trouble.

And the story goes on, making the old man say: "Now boys, if you work together, you can cut over a year's work, but if you quarrel with one another and separate it will be as easy to break you as it is to break one stick from the bundle."

Which, in its way, was a fortune for the boys.

Now, there is another story which you have not heard, it is also about an old man and his three sons. Only this man was not on his death bed, but he was very old and his mind was every day.

From the time his boys were old enough to understand, he talked to them about the Great Gold Mine. At first the boys did not know just what he meant. But he told them wonderful stories about the Great Gold Mine and made them curious about it.

When the oldest boy was twenty, he took him to one side and told him where the Great Gold Mine was to be found. Then he saw him some money, and a blessing and told him to go away and dig in it.

When the second boy was twenty, he took him aside and told him the same thing.

And when the youngest boy was twenty, he told him the secret, and the same thing to his two brothers.

Each boy was directed to stay away five years and report on his twenty-third birthday.

The first one was on time to the minute and the father asked him: "What have you dug out of the mine?"

"A grocery store and a fine business," he said.

Boy No. 2 was also punctual. And the father asked him as he had the first: "What have you dug out of the mine?"

"A college education and a professorship," he said.

When the birthday of the third boy came, he did not come to turn up the old man looked up and down the street very day expecting him to return. A week went by and still he did not come.

Then a letter came, and in this letter the youngest boy said:

"I came out here five years ago and put the money you gave me into gold mine; fifty per cent. profits guaranteed annually. I have been working for two dollars a day, waiting for the mine to pay, but it has failed, what will I do?"

The old man telegraphed the boy: "Remember what I said five years ago. Begin again. Father."

Just ten words in all, you see, and no extra charge.

Now, what was the old man told the boys about the Great Gold Mine? It was this:

The richest mine in the world is in a man's head. The best modern machine with which to dig in this mine is Thought. The best tools to use are Work and Trust. No man has ever been bunched who took stock in the mine on his own.

He was quite a simple old man, you see. And he knew that at twenty six a boy still has a good chance, even if he has five years' learning how to begin.

In Mining Business. "I think you said, Rastus, that you had a brother in the mining business in the west."

"Yes, boss, that's right." "What kind of mining—gold mining, silver mining or copper mining?" "No, boss, none of those; calcining."

Many a man is in great fear that he will get all that is coming to him.

The old man telegraphed the boy: "Remember what I said five years ago. Begin again. Father."

Just ten words in all, you see, and no extra charge.

Now, what was the old man told the boys about the Great Gold Mine? It was this:

The richest mine in the world is in a man's head. The best modern machine with which to dig in this mine is Thought. The best tools to use are Work and Trust. No man has ever been bunched who took stock in the mine on his own.

He was quite a simple old man, you see. And he knew that at twenty six a boy still has a good chance, even if he has five years' learning how to begin.

In Mining Business. "I think you said, Rastus, that you had a brother in the mining business in the west."

"Yes, boss, that's right." "What kind of mining—gold mining, silver mining or copper mining?" "No, boss, none of those; calcining."

Many a man is in great fear that he will get all that is coming to him.

The Cap Fits

The hardest job we have had since we quit wearing knickerbockers was to find a copy of the Fernie Ledger, and only after considerable searching did we find one. We had been informed that in our Fernie contemporary was an epistle which made several references to us and which was written by an old well-known "war horse." Our curiosity was somewhat aroused and we refused to be satisfied until the article had met the gaze of our own optics.

In the Ledger we found a reproduction of a letter which appeared in last Thursday's issue of the Lethbridge Daily Herald and which was written by our splenetic friend, Robert Evans.

"Bob" evidently does not like our attitude towards those of his own class, and takes umbrage to a recent editorial headed "Peace, Perfect Peace" which editorial we thought fit to place on our front page so that it might very readily attract the eye of our grouchy friend and others of the same clique.

"Bob" says that he wants to show the people what kind of a press this is. A very noble act indeed and very gratifying to us. If "Bob" would swallow just a small portion of the good contained in this old rag of freedom, he may have a slight chance of replacing the relics of his deranged brain. Modesty prevents us from saying any more on this point.

The lengthy diatribe directed at us but the vapors of a peevish and petulant individual who no doubt sees his mistake but is not willing to admit it.
The cap fits him but he refuses to wear it.

Several meetings have been held lately with a view to organizing a hockey team. The names of ten or twelve players are in the hands of the managing committee. It is expected that Coleman will have a team second to none in the Provinces. Three Coleman representatives attended a meeting held in Frank on Wednesday of last week. The organization of the team will be preceded with a view to raising funds to finance the beginning of the season's sport.

Monday was nomination day and Tuesday men in the field for civic office. Mr. Coleman, who has served the town faithfully and well as mayor during the past year—the first in his history as a town—and several years previously as chairman of the village council, now retires from civic activity in any official capacity. On Monday next the ratepayers will be asked to elect as mayor
W. L. Oulmette or D. H. Hyslop; and as councillors for the following:
J. Sloan, H. G. Gieseler, H. Smith,
H. Jones, W. E. Johnston, A. Johnston, J. Gussow, W. Fraser, Steve Leski and A. E. Knowles. Two of these old councillors, Robert Holmes and S. Shone, remain. The retirement of Mr. Cameron, whose connection with Coleman civic affairs had been long and close, will be regretted by a large number of friends. Undine in his efforts for the administration of affairs pertaining to public well being has been a well earned rest.
Looking over the list of candidates
we think that we can pick the winners, and if our guess should come true the new council will lack nothing in vim, vigor and progressiveness.
Here's to our future mayor, W. L.
Oulmette.

How to Preserve the Teeth

Teeth are composed of three different substances, dentine, which is chiefly calcareous, being the most important part. Care must be taken to preserve the enamel which is the outer covering, because it preserves the others.

Acidity injures the teeth and in countries where many sweets are eaten, thereby causing acidity, early decay is noticed.

In places where the water lacks lime, false teeth are almost universal for young people. This is true in many parts of Australia and South Africa. The very best dentifrices are often the most simple and inexpensive. Chalk and orris root combined being almost unequalled.

Carbolic tooth powders are not suitable in every case, but most preparations containing a form of peppermint may be used without hesitation. The tooth brush should be used after every meal, especially when meat forms part of the meal.

If a hole appears in the tooth and it is not possible to have it attended to at once, the best cleansing agent and decay preventive is a small piece of cotton wool dipped in tincture of myrrh and inserted in the cavity. Many dentists do this to a tooth before stopping it; the wool should be changed daily.

An excellent mouth wash is made from two parts water and one of myrrh or myrrh and borax.

Strawberries are well known as dental beautifiers.

Very cold water is not good, neither is very hot water.

It is not wise to retire to rest without cleansing the teeth.

When people suffer from gastric acid or nervous illnesses, it is very difficult to preserve the enamel and, consequently, the teeth being the Latin name for a bony tissue which connects the teeth to the socket, therefore care must be taken of the general health as well as local attention to the mouth.

Countless have been the cures wrought by the Holistic family cure, it has a power of its own not found in other preparations.

Education Better Than Cash

Don't let the boys go to work merely because the first excitement of money earning is on them. Don't let them heedlessly sacrifice themselves that your own burden may be a trifle lighter.

Your family is standing still when you do that sort of thing and not progressing. Look to the future of your boys, not to your present ease.

They do not realize what they are missing but you do—especially if you have made the achievement yourself.

The evolution of the family is one of the finest things anyone can do, and it is in which any one may take a hand. Better hold to the old ideals and keep the boys in school. Your self-reliance will increase if you do, and the harder it is for you to do, the more satisfaction you will have from your achievement.

AN AERIAL VESSEL

Zeppelin Airship Co. Turning Out

Monitors for German Army

A great aerial war vessel is being built for the German military authorities at the Zeppelin Airship Company's works at Friedrichshafen.

Detoured by the long series of catastrophes which have overtaken the Zeppelin Airship Company, it is continuing its strenuous endeavors to build an aerial navy which will give Germany the undisputed command of the air, and the new cruiser will be larger and more powerful than any aerial vessel yet built exclusively for military purposes.

She will, in fact, be only eight yards shorter than the monster passenger airship Schwaben, recently completed by the Zeppelin Company, and will be built on the same general lines.

The main difference will be the absence of the huge passenger cabin, which is swung amidships on the Schwaben, and which on the military vessel will be disposed with.

The extra margin of lifting power thus acquired will be utilized to carry the weight of armament and ammunition, for the new war vessel is to be equipped with artillery in the shape of light machine guns.

The vessel will have a total length of 132 yards and three Maybach motors, developing 150 horsepower each. She will be propelled by four screws, two at the stern being four-bladed and two mounted over the forward pair being three-bladed.

The vessel is estimated to attain a nominal speed of about 45 miles an hour. The preliminary trials of the new aerial cruiser will probably take place within the next few weeks.

Minard's Liniment cures gargle in cowa

One of the worst things we have to answer for is the habit of putting words in everybody's mouth. It weakens our talk, betrays us in the eyes of those who love us, and ties us hand and foot against a good clean way of speaking. It is like throwing pepper sauce right into the eyes of people of good, clean, sensitive hearts. Let's break ourselves of this miserable habit.

The Kidneys Wear Out

But Many People of Advanced Years have learned how to keep these organs healthy by using

DR. CHASE'S KIDNEY - LIVER PILLS

The kidneys are often the first organs of the body to cause trouble. Their work of filtering the blood is weakened by excess of food, or by the use of highly seasoned foods and alcoholic drinks.

As the kidneys are the source of some of the most serious pains and aches, with others Bright's Disease is soon developed and the end comes quickly.

Learned about Dr. Chase's Kidney and Liver Pills, and are enabled by their use to keep the kidneys healthy and strong.

This medicine is entirely different from ordinary kidney treatments, and cures the action of the kidneys and bowels. To this combined action of the kidneys and bowels.

Mr. Richard Preston, Osborne, Lambton county, Ont., writes: "I want to thank you for the wonderful cure of my kidneys and liver. I have been suffering from Bright's Disease for many years, and have tried every medicine, but nothing has helped me. I began the use of your medicine, when my back was so bad that I could not get up. I have been cured, and I feel like a new man. I have been able to get out of bed, and now, at eighty years of age, I feel like a young man. I am very grateful to you for this great medicine."

The Farmer's Workshop.

Have you ever stopped in your work to consider the importance of a workshop on the farm? If you have, you may be obliged to do so some time when you break an important thing while in the midst of a busy season, and must go six miles for repairs. Whereas, if you had a workshop of your own right at home, you could make the necessary repairs yourself at very small cost.

To have a workshop with all necessary tools for repair work is far more important than it is given credit for. It can be utilized to make profit for many ways. During the long winter months there are many articles you could fashion into things of usefulness. I know farmers who, in their own workshop, have turned out harrows, doubletrees, hoe racks, and boats, and other articles various and numerous. Some are made for neighbors and generously paid for. The desk at which I am writing this was made in my own workshop by my brother, who is handy with the tools. He has had orders for bookcases from neighbors who have seen his work. I mention this as illustration, that you may see what profits can be made from hours spent in the workshop.

At one time we were threshing wheat without paying, and the feet-board of the separator was smashed to smithereens by the belt flying off. "No more threshing today," the boss of the outfit said. "I've got to go to town to have this thing repaired."

"Give it to me," said the owner of the farm, and he took the wrecked feet-board to his workshop, and out of new material he made one as good as the broken one. In an hour the machine was humming at work, as merrily as ever before. The workshop is a valuable asset to the farmer; it saves money to the farmer in many ways, as those who have one can testify. J.A. Raiser, in Farm Journal.

ONE TIRED WOMAN AND ONE LITTLE OVEN

A MOTHER'S PRAISE OF BABY'S OWN TABLETS.

Mrs. B. S. Baker, East Margerville, N. S., writes: "No mother would recommend for her baby any medicine of which she was not absolutely sure. A baby's life is so precious. A mother is always pleased to recommend to other mothers something that has been valuable in restoring the health of her own child. That is why I can highly recommend Baby's Own Tablets. They cured my baby who was suffering from constipation, and I feel that I cannot praise them enough. I would advise all mothers with sickly babies to give them a trial, well knowing what the result will be." The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Of course a father is very much of a problem; good cultivation, good stock, good tools and a good system of work are parts of the problem. If you leave any of them out, you will have a lot of difficulty in "working it" correctly.

Minard's Liniment Cures Colds, &c.

If you only know the value of its opportunities that come but once and pass so rapidly, it would be easy to see why you would be a loss of life, and from much of the bitterness and grief, the despair and gloom that often come with old age.

To this late day wolves do a vast amount of damage in Russia. The loss of the people in domestic animals through the depredations of wolves amounts to $10,000,000 every year.

Beware of Matchmaking

Matchmaking is a dangerous business. Literally it is so, for these little light-makers often burn their own fingers. If a mistake is made the couple are apt to blame the persons who brought them together and let them into matrimony. To recommend anyone for a husband or a wife is a very responsible business, and it is as a rule, best left alone.

They do not grow stale, a quality not possessed in many pills now upon the market.

Largest Banquet in the World

The greatest banquet in history took place on August 18, 1859, when the forty thousand mayors of France sat at a table in the Palais de l'Industrie, in Paris. There were three restaurants, 15,000 guests each, 30,000 cooks, 15,000 waiters, scullions, cellar men, and helpers, 80,000 plates, 50,000 glasses, knives and spoons, and 100,000 napkins, 40,000 rolls, and fish and meat and fowl by the ton.

A Hint to the Shy

Shyness comes through lack of confidence, and to overcome shyness it is therefore necessary to overcome this feeling of diffidence and gain more confidence. There is nothing like quiet thought to help in the attainment of self-confidence, and the shy or timid person will gain much by taking a few minutes quiet and thought each day, during which time the mind is fixed on the cause of the shyness or flurry. Be determined not to become shy or nervous and reason with yourself as to why you should not become thus agitated.

An Innovation in Oil Heaters

The Perfection Smokeless Oil Heater, with its drums enameled in turquoise, is an ornament to any room, whether in the country or city home.

No home is quite complete without a Perfection Oil Heater. It is a necessity in the fall and spring, when it is too warm to start the regular heating apparatus, and too cool to be without heat. In the midst of winter it is often convenient as an auxiliary heater, as there are always some cold corners in a house.

The enameled heater always presents a nice appearance, as the enamel will not tarnish or burn off. It is not an "enameled pot," but it is the same as the enamel of your cooking utensils.

The Perfection is the most reliable and convenient portable heating device you can find. An automatically-locking flame spreader prevents turning the wick high enough to smoke.

Uses Only Cuticura Soap for Price Baby

"I have always used Cuticura Soap and no other for my baby, and he has never had a case of any kind. He does not even chafe as most babies do. I feel that it is all owing to Cuticura Soap for he is fine and healthy, and when five months old won a prize in a baby contest. It makes my heart ache to go into so many homes and see a sweet, fat baby with the white top of his head a solid mass of scurf, caused by the use of poor soap. I always recommend Cuticura, and now I know of ten the next time I see the mother she says 'Oh I am so glad you told me of Cuticura.' Signed Mrs. G. A. Selby, Redondo Beach, Calif."

Although Cuticura Soap is sold by druggists and dealers everywhere, it is best to get it from the Cuticura Co., Boston, U.S.A., who will send a liberal sample, with 25¢ worth of the care of skin, soap and hair.

The following offered to sell property to town for the purpose of erecting a fire hall thereon: L. W. Kribbs, W. A. Malcolm, W. A. Beebe and E. Sick. It was moved by Councillor Farmer and seconded by Councillor Chestnut that lots offered by W. A. Malcolm be accepted subject to the passing of bylaws Nos. 1 and 2—carried.

The site for the new fire hall is therefore on the corner of Sixth Avenue and State Street. Several applications for town policeman were read and afterwards placed in the hands of the police committee. The applicants for this coveted position now number twenty-one.

A communication was read from the provincial officer of health at Edmonton informing the council that as soon as suitable accommodation could be secured for Mrs. Burns at the home for incurables, they would be advised.

The Property and Works committee recommended that F. W. Doubt's application for right to construct a private telephone line from his livery stables to the restricted district be not granted. This recommendation was favorable to the council, and Mr. Doubt's application was therefore refused.

Bylaw No. 4 was given its second reading, and bylaw No. 5 received its third and final reading.

There was considerable discussion over bylaw No. 4 especially over that part of it relative to early closing of pool rooms. In many towns pool rooms are closed at 11 o'clock on every week night, and the Mayor suggested that a similar law be enforced in Blairmore.

Councillor Farmer moved an amendment to the bylaw that pool rooms be closed at midnight. The only other member who spoke on this matter was Councillor Chestnut who thought that as the skating rink is allowed to remain open after midnight, the pool rooms should be granted the same privilege. He further thought that 1 a.m. was early enough to close those places of amusement.

Chestnut—Farmer that pool rooms be allowed to remain open until 1 o'clock every night excepting Saturday on which night they must close at 12 o'clock.

The foregoing motion was put and the result was as follows:

ANOTHER INDUSTRY FOR BLAIRMORE

Calgary Capitalists Will Erect a Large Brick and Tile Factory at the West End of Town Where There is an Inexhaustible Supply of Clay Highly Suitable For Such Purposes.

The latest industry to be booked for Blairmore is one for the manufacture of brick and tile.

As many of our readers know this town has already got a brick plant with a capacity of 40,000 brick per day, and the demand for this product has become so great—vastly more than the supply—that other parties have become interested and have decided to erect a large and up-to-date plant at the south-west portion of Blairmore.

The chief promoters in this latest undertaking are Messrs. Foster and Lake, of Calgary, who own immense areas of clay well suitable for the manufacture of high-grade brick, pipe and tile.

We understand that work on the large plant will be commenced early in the spring and the machinery will be installed with all haste immediately after the buildings are far enough advanced, and it is more than probable that large shipments of the new company's product will be made by the end of April.

This is sure to prove a great boon to Blairmore and will be a link in the already long chain of successful enterprises operating in this vicinity.

lows: Yeas, Councillors Chestnut and Farmer; nays, Councillors Dutil, Sinclair, McLeod and Smith. The amendment was defeated, and the pool rooms may be kept running all night if the proposed bylaw passes its third reading.

McLeod—Sinclair that taxes for dogs be raised from $1 to $2 and for bitches from $2 to $5—carried.

A communication was read from the Rocky Mountain Cement Company offering to install for the town 18 additional street lights for the price of $350 for installation and $61.20 per month for current.

Smith—Chestnut that the council instruct the Light committee to proceed with the installation of 12 additional street lights and place same wherever the committee think fit.

Dutil—Sinclair made an amendment that before the Light committee proceed with the installation of any lights, they first submit to the council a plan of where the new lights would be erected.

Councillors Sinclair, McLeod and Dutil supported the amendment and Councillors Chestnut, Smith and Farmer voted for the motion. A casting vote was necessary and the Mayor in doing same declared in favor of the motion.

The Property and Works committee was instructed to bring in recommendations for a nuisance ground at the next regular meeting.

The meeting adjourned at 11.20 p.m.

DIED.—At Blairmore, on Tuesday last, at 11.15 a.m., of old age, Jim, the favorite buck of the Blairmore mine. Age unknown. Jim made a record for himself—he never ran.

Royal Bank of Canada Coming to Blairmore

The Royal Bank of Canada is establishing a branch in Blairmore. Mr. Aitken, the manager at Lethbridge, has been here and has made all necessary arrangements for the successful operation of a branch business in this town. Part of Mr. Ede's building on Victoria St. has been engaged, and bank furniture and fixtures will be installed as soon as possible so as to be ready for business by the first of the year.

The Royal Bank of Canada is the third largest institution of its kind in Canada. It was incorporated in the year 1869. Ever since its incorporation the Royal Bank has served the public well, and today it is generally recognized as being one of the best banks in the Dominion.

This will mean a second bank for Blairmore and places her as the leading banking town in The Pass. No other community around here has more than one bank.
